RESOURCES

AGRICULTURAL: Of the 444,000 acres in Benton County, well above 50% were in farms in 1946. The most important crops are hay and grain for forage, oats, and other grains, seeds, and fruits. Livestock, dairy products, and poultry contribute to the agricultural importance of the county

TIMBER

Benton County is one of six counties of the Willamette River Forest districts, which contains one fifth of the total saw timber volume of Oregon and Washington. The Siuslaw National Forest, which includes substantial areas of the central Oregon coastal area, is administered from headquarters at Corvallis

INDUSTRIES

Industrial activity in Corvallis and surrounding area is concentrated in the processing of food products, and in the manufacture of lumber products. Domestic freezing units are now in production locally. The service repair and manufacturing of farm implements is now being developed

WATER

The municipal water system of Corvallis is supplied from Rock Creek and from springs located in the Marys Peak watersheds. Capacity from all sources is approximately 4,000,000 gallons per day

Everybody likes a puzzle
Just like piggies like to guzzle.
Here is one that's fun to try,
That's easy on the mind and eye.
I'm south of town at Maple Row;
I am the place where people go
To eat a steak. My price is right
And folks come visit me each night,
And now if you should care to stop
You'll find the answer at the top. —Frankie

I'm just as sorry as can be
As through the serving hall I see
A lot of people standing up
Without a place to set their cup.
We're working in the back like mad,
Which makes the service somewhat bad.
Meet all of you are nice and kind
When we get swamped and get behind
And, folks, we do appreciate
Your patience when you have to wait.—Frankie

OREGON STATE COLLEGE

By

Delmer M. Goode,
Editor of Publications

Oregon State College, federal land-grant institution of Oregon founded in 1868, is the oldest state-supported institution of higher learning in Oregon and is the designated center for biological and physical sciences and mathematics in the State System of Higher Education. It enrolls more than 7,000 regular students annually.

Through its undergraduate schools it offers B.A., B.S., and other baccalaureate degrees. Through its Graduate School it offers M.A., M.S., Ed.D., Ph.D., and various professional degrees. The Lower Division offers two years of college work in liberal arts and sciences leading to the Junior Certificate. The School of Science offers liberal-arts majors in the sciences and graduate preparation for scientific careers. The professional schools include: Agriculture, Business and Industry, Education, Engineering and Industrial Arts, Forestry, Home Economics, and Pharmacy. The departments of Military Science and Naval Science both maintain R.O.T.C. programs. The Division of Physical Education provides extensive facilities.

The purpose of Oregon State College is defined in the federal land-grant act as follows: "The leading objects shall be, without excluding other scientific and classical studies, and including military tactics, to teach such branches of learning as are related to agriculture and the mechanic arts, in order to promote the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes in the several pursuits and professions in life." The Oregon legislature in 1868 directed that students "shall be instructed in all the arts, sciences, and other studies in accordance with the requirements of the Act of Congress."

Oregon State College is a member of the Northwest Association of Secondary and Higher Schools and is also accredited by the Association of American Universities, the American Association of University Women, and other authoritative accrediting agencies.

Research is carried on under the Graduate School, the Agricultural Experiment Station, the Engineering Experiment Station, and the Forest Products Laboratory. Both general and federal cooperative programs of extension are maintained.

Grounds, buildings, and equipment have a combined value of nearly $10,000,000. Farm and forest lands owned and used for instructional and research purposes throughout the state total 11,428 acres. The campus proper contains 199 acres and has been constructed and planted according to the plans of two eminent landscape architects. The forty permanent buildings, grouped in quadrangles allowing for expansion, are supplemented at present by numerous quonset and prefabricated structures for temporary use until new buildings of permanent type can be provided under a building program already authorized. Notable among the buildings are the Memorial Union, the Women's Building, and the Library.

The Library contains 220,000 volumes. Special rooms in the Library are the Science Reference Room, the Engineering and Technology Room, and the McDonald Rare Book Room. The Horner Museum of the Oregon Country, the Braly Ornithological Collection, the William Henry Price Memorial Collection of Paintings, and other collections of artistic, cultural, and scientific interest attract large numbers of visitors to the campus.

Quality

has no substitute

Photographic quality is an elusive thing . . .
The ability to capture your best expressions, the roundness, softness and gradations of the finished product are the trademarks of the master craftsman.

The best advice that I could give
To people who desire to live
A nice long life, without regrets
That's free from worries, tears and frets,
Don't drive too fast. Don't drink too much.
Don't sass your wife and get in dutch.
Live clean and be an honest man.
And eat at "Wethers'" when you can.

—Frankie
