Did You Know?

Playing is a child's job, it is how children learn. Young children are sensory learners, they learn best when many of their senses are engaged—seeing, hearing, touching, doing, even smelling and tasting. Playing allows them to engage many of these senses. They also learn best through direct social interaction.

Playing helps:

- Foster creativity through imagination.
- Promote problem solving.
- Encourage flexible thinking.
- Provide positive ways to work through emotions.
- Build confidence while developing different skills.
- Foster language development.
- Provide opportunities to practice concentration, self regulation and perseverance.

What Can You Do?

Take the lead from kids— join in your child's play by asking your child to give you a role (the chef, or the driver, or the master builder). Expand on what they are doing.

Adults lead the way—Introduce a new game, share your interests and skills such as knitting, gardening, woodworking, biking, fishing, cooking, reading, science etc.

Meet Elizabeth!

If you haven't already, please come by and meet the newest member of the youth services staff at the Corvallis-Benton County Public Library—Elizabeth.

Elizabeth is originally from Arizona but really considers herself to be an Oregonian. Yay!!!

She loves to read, and knit, and she is currently trying to learn to play a home-made ukulele her husband lovingly made out of a cardboard box.

She also loves to go birding with her husband and two young children.

While you are at the library, you might see Elizabeth doing storytime or busy helping patrons at the circulation desk as well as the youth services reference desk. Elizabeth says the favorite part of her job is interacting with kids and families, and doing storytime.

Welcome Elizabeth!

MONSTERS WITH FEELINGS

Early Literacy Activity:

Read "Glad Monster, Sad Monster" by Ed Emberley. Create monsters with faces that express different emotions. You can make them out of paper plates, or brown paper bags, or paper and popsicles sticks. Some kids may need help naming and understanding certain emotions. Encourage kids to talk about things that make them feel happy, sad, afraid, excited, embarrassed, angry and other emotions.
